3. Subcommittee Reports

CA4 Diversity and Multiculturalism

Anabel Perez reported that the GEOC approved the following course for teaching in the intensive session via electronic voting:

CLCS 2201      Intercultural Competency towards Global Perspectives

Xae Alicia Reyes reported that the CA4 is currently reviewing two proposals for the minor revision of existing courses. The subcommittee will recommend that the revision CARs include the justification for inclusion in gen ed that was included when the courses were first approved in 2005. They will report on these courses at the next GEOC meeting.

W Competency

The W subcommittee recommended approval of the following new courses for inclusion in the W competency:

ANTH/HRTS 3028W      Indigenous Rights and Aboriginal Australia
GPS 4300W              Collaborative Leadership
WGSS 3105W            The Politics of Reproduction

The W subcommittee also recommended that, with the revision of the syllabi attached to the CAR to match what is written in the CAR justification, the following courses be approved for inclusion in the W competency:

WGSS 3270W            Masculinities
WGSS 3257W            Feminist Disability Studies

Motion carried.

Tom Long will contact the proposers for editing of the syllabi.

The W subcommittee also recommended the approval of the following 1 credit course for approval in the intensive session, contingent on the course following the same instructional design used with success in the Wintersession and an enrollment cap of 9 students:

ARE 3440W                      Writing in Environmental and Resource Policy

Motion to approve the course with the contingencies recommended by the W subcommittee. Motion seconded.

Motion carried.

4. Assessment

Assuming the GEOC gets an Assessment budget in FY13, the GEOC needs to think about those projects it would like to undertake in the next academic year. The CA4 subcommittee chairs have volunteered to head the next stage of CA4 assessment, with the help of a graduate student.

5. Other

With the dismantling of the Institute for Teaching and Learning, there has been some talk about where the W and Q Centers would be moved. One suggestion has been to house the Q Center in the Math Department and the W Center in the English Department. Because the mission of the Centers' is university-wide, the GEOC has some concerns that this arrangement could result in the inability of the Centers to maintain this university-wide scope.

Murph Sewall will send a message to the Chair of Senate Executive Committee to express GEOC concerns over how such a move would affect support for the General Education curriculum.

Meeting adjourned 1:03pm.

Respectfully submitted,
Anabel Perez
GEOC Administrator
