Either semester. Three credits. Prerequisite: ENGL 105 or 110 or 111 or 250. Hours by arrangement. Enrollment limited to Nutritional Sciences honors students. Consent of honors advisor and department head required.

W Criteria : -This course represents the culmination of the Honors research experience. It requires the student to articulate the research question posed, describe the procedures followed and the results found, and then interpret them all in the context of the existing literature.

The end product will be a minimum of 15 pages and will determine the entire grade for the course. Therefore failing the W component inevitably means failure in the course. Instruction is individually based, as the student goes through multiple cycles of review and revision, under the direction of his/her honors thesis advisor.

Role of Grad Students: -None
